GOOD ROADS

President-Elect Wilson Belief in Wisdom of National Improvement by Means of Communication.

President-elect Wilson in many public addresses has voiced his belief in the wisdom of national improvement by means of communication, and particularly of roads, to which he specifically referred in his address at the American Road congress at Atlantic City, on that occasion saying among other things:

"A nation is bound together by its means of communication; and its means of communication create its thought."

"We must more and more engage the government in providing the general facilities of the common life. There is no breach in that of any of our older understandings of the functions of government. We have never doubted that the government had the right to supply these facilities which private endeavor has never been expected to supply. Therefore we are not upon a new ground of theory; we are merely upon a new ground of tactics."

"The question of highways is one of the few great instrumentalities of our public and our communal life with which the government is of necessity connected. I see that we must do what we have been backward in doing as compared with other nations."

"I tell you frankly my interest in good roads is not merely an interest in the pleasure of riding in automobiles. It is not merely an interest in the much more important matter of affording farmers of this country and residents in villages means of ready access to such neighboring markets as they need for economic benefit, but it is also the interest in weaving as a national and elaborate a net of neighborhood and state and national opinion together as it is possible to weave. It is of the most fundamental importance that the United States

POULTRY

NEW INDUSTRY IN PHEASANTS

Interest Becoming Widespread and Thousands of Birds Now Scattered Throughout Country.

By W. L. MEATHEE

Conservation of the fauna including the game birds of the United States requires the strict enforcement of laws intended to control the shooting and marketing of wild birds, and necessarily limits both the period during which they may be hunted and the number available to supply the increasing demands of those who desire these table luxuries.

This lack may be remedied by the product of aviculture, preserves, and private parks, devoted to rearing of domesticated game, the marketing of which under suitable safeguards, is already permitted in several of the states, indicating that American markets will open more and more to these domesticated substitutes to the fast disappearing wild game.

At present there is no lack of demand for pheasants for various purposes. Owners of private preserves, and state game officials, pay profitable prices for certain species for stocking their covers, zoological and city parks and owners of private aviaries are ready purchasers of the rarer and more beautiful species, and large numbers of dead pheasants are annually imported from Europe to be sold for several times the price they bring in European countries. The demand for pheasants is increasing.

Ringneck pheasants have long been established in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and are less common in the wild state in Massachusetts, New York, Indiana and Kansas. Efforts to acclimate pheasants in the United States are of comparatively recent origin, though earlier than is popularly supposed.

The few pheasant stomachs examined indicate that these birds are very fond of grain. Oats and wheat composed about 34 per cent. of the food of 12 ringneck pheasants collected in Oregon and Washington and 82.5 per cent. of the stomach contents of two English pheasants from British Columbia. But all of these birds were taken in September, October and December; hence it is probable that all of this grain was waste. The next largest item of food in these stomachs was insects, consisting entirely of larvae of March flies. One stomach contained no fewer than 360 of these larvae and another 432. The remainder of the food included acorns, pine seeds, browse, peas, rose hips, lupine, bird clover, black mustard and chickweed.

From 200 to 300 kernels of wheat and oats were taken by various birds; about 200 peas were found in one stomach, but it was evident that these were the old and partly decomposed refuse of the harvest. Twenty-three acorns and 200 pine seeds were taken by the birds which ate the largest amount of waste, and about 800 capsules of chickweed, containing more than 8,000 seeds, were in the stomach of the best weed seed eater.

What is most evident is that pheasants are gross feeders; their capabilities for good or harm are great. If a number of them attack a crop they are likely to make short work of it, or if they devote themselves to weed seeds or insect pests they do a great deal of good. It seems therefore that the question of the economic value of pheasants is peculiarly a local one. Much depends on the proportion of land under cultivation, the kind of crops raised, and the quantity of wild food available. Apparently the chances are about even that imported pheasants will or will not become useful economic factors.

Clover for Fowls.

Clover is better than any other hay for fowls for the reason that it possesses erg making nutriment, as well as fiber to separate the particles of grain. It is not bulk, more quantity, that is needed, but coarse fiber to separate the concentrated food in the stomach, that the gastric juices can circulate through the mass.

LIVE STOCK

HOGS DURING BREEDING TIME

Of Much Importance That Sow Should Be in Good Flesh to Produce Healthy Litter of Pigs.

Sows eight months old or over may be bred. It is strong and vigorous, for spring farrow. But sows that are younger than this best not produce their first litter until next fall to order that a sow may produce a strong, healthy litter of pigs. It is important, according to Swine Breeder, not only that she be fed well during pregnancy, but that she be in fairly strong flesh for several weeks previous to the time of breeding. It is stated by those who know that a sow which is gaining rapidly in flesh just before breeding is more likely to produce a large, healthy litter. To secure this condition in sows we would gradually increase the ration during the period extending from three weeks to a month before breeding time. We do not mean that a sow should be fat at breeding time, but merely that she should be in her most vigorous condition.

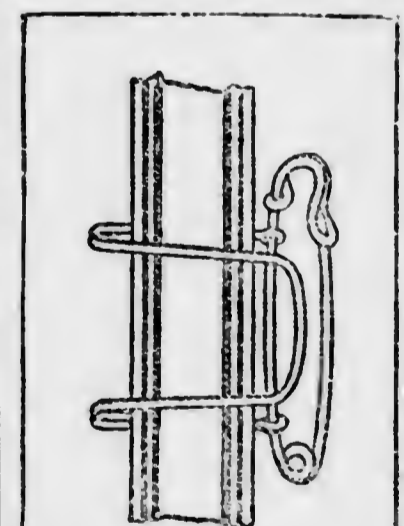

A bear is not at his best until he is two or three years of age. He may be used on a few sows when 8 or 10 months of age and on more the following year, but he should not be put into heavy service until two years or more of age. One service a day is plenty for the average bear. Food for the bear should be such as will keep him in the strongest and most vigorous condition. Three parts of corn, one part of shorts and one-third of a part of oil meal or one-sixth of a part of tankage, with skim milk, if available, makes a splendid ration for both bear and sows. He should be given a lot of exercise, especially in the winter, when he can secure plenty of exercise and yet not bother the sows.

If it is necessary to buy a bear, this should be done at least three weeks before the breeding season, and the newly purchased animal kept by himself. This is simply a precaution to avoid introducing lice and possibly disease into the herd. While being kept by himself the bear should be thoroughly washed with dip every ten days.

CLIP FOR A HORSE BLANKET

Little Device Saves Animal Much Suffering When Cover is Blown Off During Severe Weather.

No matter how carefully a man may blanket his horse, the wind or the horse's own restlessness may cause the cover to be either blown off or thrown off. The horse then suffers from the cold and the blanket is trampled on and torn. But along comes a Pennsylvania man with a simple little fastener that prevents any such mishaps.

Horse Blanket Clip.

A piece of wire is bent into a hook that opens upward. At the top is a large safety pin by which the device can be fastened to the blanket in an instant, or it can be kept fastened. All that need be done, then, to keep the cover on is to hook the wire under the blanket strap, or no matter how hard the wind blows or how much the horse stamps and switches his tail, there it will stay until the owner unhook it.

A Lucrative Investment.

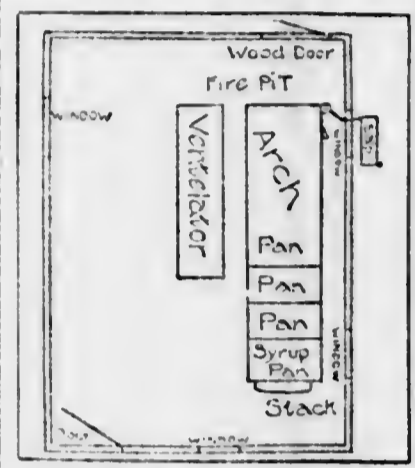

The hog is a very old and fertilizing land and pays a good return on the crops he consumes. He will do your waste grain and vegetables, which are not otherwise marketable. He will thus yield a profit on what might otherwise be wasted. The early increase in young pigs keeps the supply rapidly increased from a small beginning. It is a lucrative investment. The secret of success in fattening, as in other industries, lies in buying a sow for everything. There is no reason why such products as are the waste of the orchard should be thrown away. There is a use for everything on the farm if the farmer will but seek until he finds it, and the hog is a great help in putting all sorts of food to a profitable use.

EQUIPMENT OF SUGAR HOUSE

Arch and Ventilator Placed So as to Prevent Drip From Condensed Steam Falling in Pans.

In reply to an inquirer on "Problems in Maple Sugar Making," I would say that if soft coal is used for fuel grates would be necessary. Several unmanufactured evaporator arches would handle soft coal or wood, or both together, and my impression is that coal and wood mixed would make a dandy heat for evaporating, writes M. J. Nowome in the Michigan Farmer. If you are using a house-made arch, see that the ash pit is good and deep, say 18 or 20 inches below the grates, and full size of grate surface, built up of brick, stone or cement. Have good damper to ash pit and good, tight fire doors.

It depends some on the size of the evaporator as to the correct size of sugar house. A 3 by 12 foot arch would work nicely in a 12 by 18 foot building.

Arch and Ventilator.

building, with 6 foot sides and half-pitch roof. Set arch about 21 inches from one side, so as to have the working side of pans near center of floor. Put ventilator in the peak, say 20 inches wide and two-thirds the length of arch. In this with flaps out of same, as 70 per cent. of the evaporating is accomplished on the front half of arch. The object of placing arch between wall and ventilator is so the drip from condensed steam will not fall in pans.

PROTECT ALL YOUNG TREES

Devastation by Rabbits May be Well Guarded Against by Use of Common Axle Grease.

We know that a rabbit is a very cleanly animal, and will not touch anything that smells strong or that is greasy, and for that reason blood and grease have been used for years as a smear for the young fruit trees that have been set out. As, however, not all folks can get or care to use such material, especially as the smell of blood at its best is but short in its duration, we suggest that common dark colored axle grease be used, says Rural Life. Herbert A. Horton, an Oregon fruit grower, claims the best results for it, saying: "I had 600 acres last summer, and it was amusing to watch the rabbits on moonlight nights. They would wrinkle their noses; spit, spat with a hind foot and move on to the next tree, but there was nothing doing on the gnaw."

If one puts on a pair of cheap cotton gloves, such as the masons and carpenters use in winter, smearing them liberally in the palms of the hands with the axle grease, it is quickly applied to the young trees, when they are caught near the ground and, encircling them, pulled upward. This puts a thin coat all over the trunk of the trees, that a rain will not wash off nor will the sun take away its odor.

PROTECT THE LITTLE BIRDS

Fruit Growers and Farmers Lose Immense Amount of Money on Account of Ravages of Insects.

By WALTER B. CRUTZ
Fruit and fruit growers of the country are losing over $1,000,000,000 a year by reason of the ravages of insects. Cotton growers are losing $50,000,000 a year by reason of the ravages of the boll weevil. And all because the quail and the prairie chicken, the natural enemies of that bug, are practically exterminated.

Wheat and fruit growing regions are suffering because of the killing off of snappers, robins, bluejays, bluebirds, crows, tangers, martins, swallows, swifts, night hawks, crows, herons, bobolinks, jacks, kingfishers and other birds which men love to kill under the pure lust for slaughter.

A quail killed in a potato field had in its crop the remains of 101 potato bugs. Another killed in Texas had in its crop the remains of 127 boll weevils. Another killed in a Kansas wheatfield had the remains of 1,200 chinch bugs.

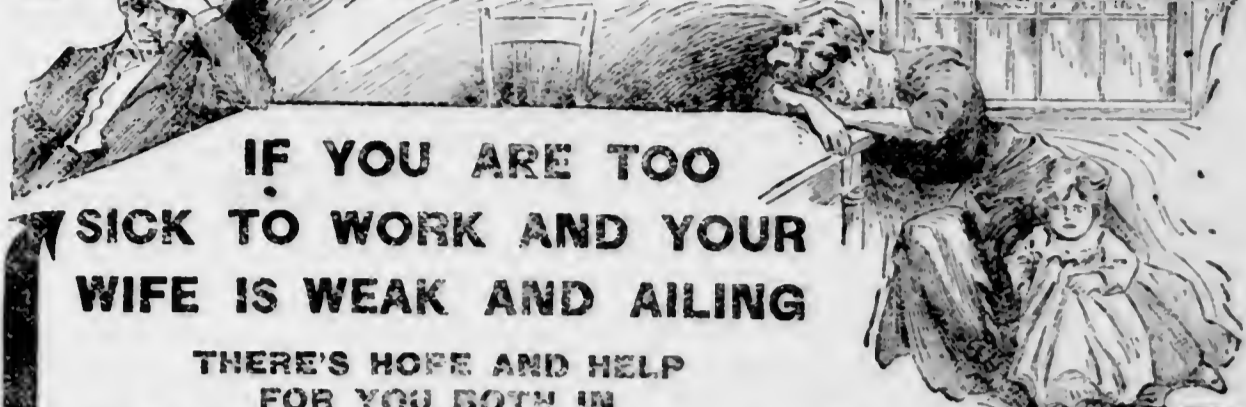

Winter Work in Orchards.

That this season of the year is the most propitious for doing satisfactory and profitable work in the orchard more can deny, since the conditions there are such that the minimum amount of labor will produce maximum results, the coolness of the weather also assisting the farmer in accomplishing more with the same effort than at any other season during the entire year.

Honest Picking.

The man who puts up an honest pack of first-class fruit in uniform, well-made packages need never fear that the money spent for attractive labels will be wasted.

Read what Cardui did for Miss Myria Engler, of Fairbault, Minn. She says: "Let me tell you how much good Cardui has done me. As a young girl, I always had to suffer so much with all kind of pain. Sometimes, I was so weak that I could hardly stand on my feet. I got a bottle of Cardui, at the drug store, and as soon as I had taken a few doses, I began to feel better. Today, I feel as well as anyone can."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

Are you a woman? Then you are subject to a large number of troubles and irregularities, peculiar to women, which, in time, often lead to more serious trouble.

A tonic is needed to help you over the hard places, to relieve weakness, headache, and other unnecessary pains, the signs of weak nerves and over-work.

For a tonic, take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

You will never regret it, for it will certainly help you. Ask your druggist about it. He knows. He sells it.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of J. Leo Fentress for clerk of the Muhlenberg County Court, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

MEMBERS of the militia can get high grade shoes for $1.50 a pair. This is another argument for equal rights to women.

ONE important detail of winter business appears to have been overlooked. Where are the figures on the years output of sawcrank!

SECRETARY Bryan asserts that standpatism is dead, but considering Mr. Bryan's own off reported political demise, we prefer to await the official verdict of the coroner's jury.

COMPTROLLER Pendergast of New York city plans saving $3,500,000 or $4,000,000 a year in purchasing municipal supplies by making the city its own middleman. This looks like a bright idea.

ON a street car in Buffalo the other day a woman offered to a boy who happened to sit beside her a counterfeit nickel that the conductor had refused. She explained to the boy that he might be able to pass it somewhere. He quietly thanked her, and said, "I don't want it; I am a Scout." The answer amply justifies the whole Boy Scout movement. But what is to be said of the woman?

The letter "F," under the last figure of the date on the new five cent piece, stands for the name of Mr. James F. Frozer, the designer. Mr. Victor D. Brenner put his initials on the Lincoln cent, but there was so much protest that, after a few million coins had been minted, the government had new dies made without initials. Mr. Frozer may not be so fortunate in winning the attention of coin-collectors.

WHAT'S this? New Orleans, the home of chivalry, to imprison women for wearing hat pins of illegal length? Why, it was in New Orleans that we first heard that delightful bit of repartee by the gallant man who had been prodded in the eye by a lady's parasol. "Oh! I am so sorry!" she exclaimed. "I'm afraid I have put out your eye!" "It doesn't signify, ma'am," returned the gallant bowing low. "I have another and with it may behold you."

The wild Indian has apparently disappeared forever. Even the great chiefs who, in native costume, watched President Taft break ground for the Indian memorial at the entrance to New York harbor a few weeks ago, were not what they seemed. One of them, whose war-bonnet shadowed a face streaked with yellow and vermilion, was looking at the great East River bridge when a bystander attempted by signs and motions to impress him with an idea of its size. After a little the Indian interrupted him with the remark, "Yes it's some bridge, all right." He is a graduate of Carlisle. The ancestral costume was for the occasion only.

At the Buc Aerodrome, on March 17th, M. Petreton, on a Blériot monoplane, succeeded in reaching the tremendous height of 6,000 meters (19,685 feet). He thus beat the records of Legagneux (5,450 meters or 17,880 feet on September 17th, 1912) and of Gattos at Tunis (5,610 meters or 18,400 feet on December 11th, 1912) by a wide margin. The atmosphere is only about half as dense at these great heights as it is at the earth's surface. Not only does this effect the lifting power of the aeroplane but it reduces the horse power of the motor as well, so that it is doubtful if a machine will ever be able to climb to a height much greater than four miles. Then, too, there is the difference in breathing, and it will be imperative for the aviator to inspire oxygen.

The young head pilot of the Larman school at Etampes, Pierre Gengenheim, recently made a brilliant performance, breaking the record for light with five men on board, in spite of the fact that a very strong wind was blowing at the time. At 7 A. M. the 50-horse-power Thome motored Farman biplane left the shed and took on the pilot and four men, and at 7:10 A. M. the aeroplane started up easily in spite of the heavy load and then made evolutions about the aerodrome. At 8:05 A. M. it reached an altitude of 750 meters (2,461 feet), but then a shower commenced and this prevented him from going any higher. He descended under good conditions and alighted with ease in front of the hangars. The above height was found recorded on the barometer. The world's record or five persons had been held by the Belgian Herschaeve with 596 meters (1,955 feet), but this is much distanced at present. The flight was checked by the Aero Club's delegate. What is remarkable is that the velocity of the wind was 35 miles an hour, and the pilot had great difficulty in overcoming the air resistance caused by the four persons. He used a huge Farman biplane having a spread of 56 feet.

Gangrene.
Gangrene is the death of a part of the living body. Sometimes it results from an injury, such as burning or frost-bite, or from a surgical operation. Sometimes it is the consequence of a physical condition, with such causes as diabetes, or senility, or embolism. Whatever the cause or whatever form it takes, it means that the obstruction to circulation has been so complete as to prevent local nutrition, and to bring about the death of the part.

Gangrene may be either "moist" or "dry." In the former case, the death of the part has been sudden, while it was still abundantly fed with the body fluids. Moist gangrene is therefore found in cases of severe accident. Red sores, carbuncles, an so called "hospital gangrene" are of the same variety. Senile gangrene and the gangrene caused by frost bite are dry. The circulation of the aged is always somewhat impaired, and sometimes the blood finds it so difficult to force its way through the thickened and inelastic arteries that the extremities of the body become gangrenous from sheer lack of nourishment.

Most gangrene is always preceded by inflammation. The part swells, and is painful; the color at first livid, turns to blue and then to black. Treatment, to be of value must be prompt. The poison of gangrene is at first local; but if it is neglected and enters the system, the situation becomes grave. Even amputation of the diseased member may not save life.

As impaired circulation is at the root of the trouble, the treatment must try to restore the circulation, and combat the inflammation. Local heat is the best means of restoring the circulation. Hot bottles, or warm irrigations, or bandages of hot flannels may be used. Gangrene is not a matter for home treatment, except under the constant and watchful care of the physician, for in many cases operation is the only means of saving life.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

OPENING OF THE ERIE CANAL.

It was a great day when the Erie canal was opened for traffic on October 26, 1825. That was two years before the first railroad was built in this country, and the canal was the most stupendous piece of work that had yet been undertaken. The idea was conceived by Gouverneur Morris in 1809. It was strenuously advocated by a few prominent men, and at length approved by the state. Work was not begun till July 4, 1817, at which time ground was broken at Rome, N. Y. In eight years it was completed, opening a 224-mile uninterrupted passage from Lake Erie to the Hudson. The opening was celebrated by a magnificent discharge of cannon, commencing at Lake Erie, and continued along the banks of the canal and of the Hudson, announcing to the city of New York the entrance of the first barge that was to arrive at the commercial emporium from the American Mediterranean. Governor Clinton and other noted public men were on the barge, and their voyage down the canal was a triumphal procession.

Studebaker

"I've been selling Studebaker Wagons and Buggies for over 30 years."

"I've told them because my reputation as a dealer was at stake and from experience I have found that Studebaker means the best." That tells the story. Farmers bought Studebaker wagons before the Civil war and they have been buying them ever since. Because they had confidence in the name Studebaker and in the sturdy, dependable wagons and buggies they build. And that confidence has been upheld. Studebaker wagons are built on honor and the Studebaker guarantee goes with every one. There's a Studebaker for your needs—whether you live in city, town or country.

Mr. Andrew Hoag, of Drakesboro, was here Monday on business.

See and hear the funny minstrel men tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Irvin and children were in Owensboro for Easter.

Mr. H. Y. Slaton is in Providence on his way to relatives and friends.

Go to hear the minstrel men tonight.

Mrs. F. K. Jamison and Mrs. Hill, of Weir, were here Monday with friends.

Best entertainment of the whole season will be the minstrel show at the opera house to night. Get tickets at Hale's.

Dr. C. E. O'Bryan, of White City, was here a day or two the first of the week on business affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adkins, of Depoy, were here shopping Monday.

Mr. Robert Hardison was in Hopkinsville the latter part of the week on legal business.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Roark and Mrs. H. O. Meredith are in Louisville for a stay of some days.

Miss Lula Clemmons was here from Depoy, spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson.

See Curd & York, at Central City, for granite and marble work of all kinds.

There have been several fine opportunities to use the King drag this week, the showers making the roads in just the proper condition.

The Spring term of the Muhlenberg circuit court will convene Monday, April 21, with a very light docket in prospect.

If you want granite or marble work of any kind, see Curd & York, at Central City, for best work and lowest prices.

Mr. John M. Wells, while engaged in moving a house severely injured an index finger last Friday, but there will be no permanent injury.

Painters, paper hangers, carpenters, concrete men are all getting very busy now, and there is an abundance of work of all kinds in sight here for the summer.

The children of the Methodist Sunday-school enjoyed an Easter egg hunt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Martin last Saturday afternoon.

Wanted—Men to represent us in the rural districts of Kentucky; good salary for whole time or part time; party must furnish reference and be able to furnish bond. Address G. A. McGrawhnan, State Manager, Lock Box 180, Lexington, Ky.

Estray Notice.

Taken up as astray by Tom Fox living on what is known as "The Dutch Farm" about Dec. 1st 1917. Two red heifers about one year old and unmarked; valued at fifteen dollars each by L. Z. Kirkpatrick.

Subscribed and sworn to before me by Tom Fox this fourth day of March 1917.

J. H. Lovell, J. P. M. C.

Sunday's weather was inviting enough to induce owners of new clothes to go to church—but too bad for those to get out who had no new rigging.

"Bub White" is without doubt the best flour on earth.

Roark has the agency for the line of Sturgis "Superba" baby carriages, one of the most complete lines on the market. See them before you buy; made right, look fine, priced right.

Mr. Orien L. Roark was in Louisville yesterday, attending a meeting of the executive committee of the Kentucky Funeral Directors' Association.

To The Public.

We desire to announce to the public that our new mill is now in full operation, and we will at all times have on hand the very finest quality of flour, meal and feed. We are very anxious to do custom grinding for our friends, and can give them the very best flour and wheat that is to be had anywhere, in exchange for their corn and wheat.

HOME MILLING CO. (INC.)

Timid folks have been undergoing many anxious hours during the past week, as reports of the terrible disasters by storms have caused deep dread at the high winds we have been getting here.

Take your beef hides to J. E. Coombs & Co. and get the cash.

Messrs. John Latham and Wallace Malone left Sunday for Iowa, where they will spend the summer in agricultural labor.

When you get "Quail" meal you get the best that is to be had.

M. A. Oates has purchased Wilks Her, a registered stallion, and one of the best horses ever in the country. Service will be $15. Telephone No. 19 1-2, Depoy.

Telephone No 5 and your laundry will be called for and delivered.

We have had our usual amount of March weather, wind included, but have been very fortunate, as we had no serious loss of property, and no loss of life, while many vast sections have suffered heavily in both.

Victors and Records at Roark's.

Cleveland Mercer Dies Monday.

Cleveland, the 20-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Finis Mercer, died at their home at 5 o'clock last Monday afternoon, following a lengthy confinement from pulmonary tuberculosis. He was a bright, popular young man, and his untimely death has caused widespread sorrow among his wide circle of friends and admirers, and his parents have the most profound sympathy of all. Interment was in the cemetery at Unity church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and was largely attended.

Judge Wm. H. Vost is here from Madisonville a day or two this week on legal business.

Mr. Otto A. Rothert returned to Louisville Tuesday, after a stay of some days with friends in and near town. He was here preparing for the sale of his book, "A History of Muhlenberg County," which will be ready for delivery about June 1st.

Sunday was automobile day, everyone being out driving.

Mr. John B. Wilson, an attorney of Hartford, was here Monday on legal business.

Mrs. Richardson and Miss Annie Richardson, who have been here some months on a visit to relatives, left yesterday for their home in Hampton, Va.

Fractured Arm Received in Fall.

Mr. Joe Coombs is suffering from a fractured arm, the injury being received in a fall while he was putting in a water gate on his farm last Thursday. He is able to be at his place of business, but is suffering some from the accident.

Gibbs-Adkins Wedding.

Miss Mammie Gibbs, who lived near Dunmore, and Mr. Robert M. Adkins, who lives at Depoy, were united in marriage at Russellville on the evening of March 19 by the pastor of Beechland Baptist church. Next day they returned to their home at Depoy, where they were greeted by a number of relatives and friends, the neighbors having arranged dinner and quite a number of remembrances were brought in by well wishers. Mr. Adkins is one of the county's foremost citizens, and the bride is an attractive woman who has a host of admirers. Both have the best wishes of a wide circle of friends.

Easter Celebration.

The Baptist Sunday-school at Powderly observed Easter last Sunday afternoon in an egg hunt near the church. There were 112 pupils in the school, and something like 500 eggs had been prepared, and when the count was made at the close it was found that very few had been overlooked. There was much fun in the hunt, and everybody had a great time.

Committee Meeting.

On Saturday, April 5th, at one o'clock P. M., the county committees of both the Republican and Progressive parties of Muhlenberg County will meet at the court house in Greenville for the purpose of arranging for a county ticket to be nominated for county offices to be voted for at the November election, the purpose being to nominate said ticket by both of the parties. It is desired that as many people belonging to the two parties as can be present at this meeting and all are invited to be present.

R. B. SHAYER, SEC. REP. COM.
J. ED. SHAYER, CHM. PROG. COM.

Mrs. Smith, of Mayfield, spent Easter with her sister, Mrs. L. W. Irvin.

Mr. J. B. Hindspeth, who has been in Louisville with Buschmeyer Bros., druggists, is home on a short stay.

Mrs. T. J. Jones is preparing to build a brick business room adjoining her present Main street property. The new quarters will be occupied by Lewis & Fred, who have the old stand, which has been found inadequate to their rapidly growing business. Work will be started at once, and rushed straight through.

The high winds of this week have played havoc with fences and trees about the country, as well as doing much other damage.

Foley's Kidney Cure

During the past few days severe storms have swept over various parts of the country, doing great damage. A storm sweeping over Louisville at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning did considerable damage, part of the roof of the new Armory being torn away.

Kentucky Mining Institute.

The Program Committee of the Kentucky Mining Institute, for the meeting to be held May 16th and 17th, has selected 24 events for the State Wide First Aid Contest to be held on May 16th at Lexington, in connection with the Spring meeting of the Kentucky Mining Institute, and the judges, on the day of the contest, will select five of the problems, and these five problems will be performed by each team participating in the contest, and the prizes will be awarded upon the work performed in the problems so selected.

"Apostle of Sunshine" Dies.

Rev. A. A. Willits, the noted lecturer, who by his cheerfulness gained the title "Apostle of Sunshine," died at Philadelphia last Friday. He was 82 years old, and in addition to his platform work, carrying him all over the country, had occupied the pulpits of many prominent Presbyterian churches which he had served as pastor. He was well known here, where he had appeared as a lecturer, and had many warm friends and admirers.

The last picture of the Courier-Journal Times Booklovers' Contest appeared Sunday, and three weeks will be allowed for contestants to prepare and submit their answers. Much interest has been taken in the pictures, and the number of the contestants will run into the thousands.

Novel Bird Nest On Display.

Uncle Amos Jenkins, a nature lover and a close observer of things in general, brought to this office Tuesday a novelty in the way of a bird's nest. It is the former home of an oriole, and the workmanship is masterful, the nest being braced and tied with perfect knots to the limb of a tree, a small section of which was cut off. The nest is on display in Roark's show window, and every passerby is attracted to it, and wonders at the remarkable skill displayed by the bird.

Courier-Journal and Times, Special Edition.

The special edition of The Courier-Journal and Times, Tuesday, was a fine example of modern newspaper work. It is made up of fifteen sections, with more than 200 pages, illustrated throughout with the highest work of the engraver's art. This is the largest edition of any newspaper ever issued in the South, and one of the largest ever issued in the United States. It was called the "Southern Prosperity" number, and celebrated the forty-fourth anniversary of The Courier-Journal.
